ABSTRACT

The 41 tables from the Section of the "Statistical Yearbook" describe the condition of education in New York state in the 1990s and provide information that allows comparisons with early years and with other states. In 1996, the year of latest data, New York's elementary and secondary schools served 3,290,150 students, and 995,885 students were enrolled in the state's institutions of higher education. Tables are grouped into the following categories: (1) fall enrollments in public and nonpublic elementary and secondary schools; (2) public school finances and professional positions; (3) high school graduates, college entrants, and dropout rates; (4) enrollments, degrees granted, and expenditures by institutions of higher education; (5) State University of New York enrollments, degrees granted, and employees; (6) tuition assistance, student loans, scholarships, and awards; (7) educational attainment; (8) libraries, archives, and museums; (9) support for the arts; and (10) public television and broadcasting. Data focus on the 1990s, although in some cases data from earlier decades are included for comparative purposes. (SLD)

1 The local units charged with the administration of schools in New York State may be placed in three categories:

- a The "common school district" dates from 1812 and is limited to providing education through the eighth grade. The district was originally set up in 1812 to render "common schooling" or the three Rs. The district was and for the most part has continued to be small in area. Some common districts have consolidated but continue to function as common school districts. The district is governed by a sole trustee or a board of three trustees.
- b City school districts are subdivided into two fiscal categories. School districts of cities of population under 125,000 are fiscally independent. School districts of the "Big Five" cities (population over 125,000) are fiscally dependent and have boundaries which are coterminous with the city.
- c The "union free district," unlike the common district, may provide high school services when granted a charter by the Board of Regents, although some union free districts provide elementary school services only and in that regard function quite like common districts.

Central school districts and central high school districts, while organized under special provisions of the law, function thereafter as union free districts and may, therefore, properly be put in the category of union free districts. When a union free or central district employs its own superintendent of schools, it is called an independent village superintendency district. Its operation, however, is not changed materially.

2 Districts are counted annually in September.

3 Includes "Big Five" cities (New York, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Yonkers), other smaller independent city districts and city central districts.

4 Includes village central school districts.

5 The supervisory district serves in an intermediate position; that is, between the State and the local district. The geographical extent of the supervisory district is determined by a grouping of towns. The administrative officer of the supervisory district is the district superintendent whose qualifications by law must be the same as those of the city and village superintendents. The district superintendent serves as both a local officer and a State officer.

6 BOCES (Boards of Cooperative Educational Services) are service organizations created by law to do for a district that which it cannot do by or for itself because of size, financial burden, etc. BOCES are not included in the "Total Districts" column because they function as providers of services to regional groups of school districts.

r Revised.

1 Includes architectural history, architectural photography, historic preservation, industrial design, landscape architecture and urban planning.

2 Includes support for collaborative programs between arts organizations and schools that benefit children from prekindergarten through twelfth grade.

3 Initiated in 1983-84. Matching funds are provided from county budgets and/or private sources. Prior to 1990-91, this program was called the Local Incentive Funding Test (LIFT).

4 Includes support for performances, long-range development, documentation, archives, and selected administrative services.

5 Includes "decentralization" grants awarded to local "regrant" agencies which review applications for awards of $5,000 or less. "Decentralization" was initiated in 1976-77.

6 Includes awards for distribution, production and exhibition. Also includes films for children. Prior to 1990-91, this was known as "Film."

7 Includes support for presentation of traditional folk arts, funding of folklorists-in-residence, apprenticeships, film and media documentaries and special projects.

8 Includes the NYS Artists Fellowship Program administered by the New York Foundation for the Arts, a nonprofit organization.

9 Includes readings, workshops, panels, book fairs, school programs, literary magazines, storytelling, and translations of foreign literature.

10 Includes awards to local arts councils, multiarts centers and multi-disciplinary service organizations.

11 Includes audio art, audio documentary/narrative, video art, video documentary/narrative and services to the field (e.g., equipment services, information sharing, library collections, artists-in-residence support). Beginning in 1990-91, this funding was grouped under Electronic Media and Film.

12 Includes general operating aid as well as project support (exhibitions, conservation, interpretation, education and documentation projects).

13 Includes orchestras, opera companies, jazz, chamber music, early and contemporary music, publications, recordings, services and tours.

14 Includes support for performances of dance, music, and theatre.

15 Includes support for professional arts activities within the Asian, Black, Hispanic, Native American and ethnic communities of the State, provision of commissions and residencies to individual artists as well as support for instruction and training in preparation for professional careers in the arts.

16 Includes children's theatre, street theatre, mime, experimental, off-Broadway, off-off-Broadway as well as productions of large institutional organizations, resident professionals and semi-professionals, and projects of not-for-profit publishers.

17 Includes exhibition opportunities, workspace facilities, publishing, and direct support for fees and materials.

a The Council's appropriation act of 1992-93 and 1993-94 mandates that "the residents of each county receive arts services proportionate to at least 40 cents per capita of population in each county, except that Council grant standards of artistic quality and administrative competence must be met." This figure was reduced from 55 cents per capita of population in earlier years.

I Includes State appropriations only, awarded as grants administered by the New York State Council on the Arts. Includes Statewide grants not allocatable by county.
